Message from the Executive Director

Dear members, colleagues, partners and friends,

What makes a Woman and Child Protection Unit extraordinary? It’s the people who embody it: the doctors, the social workers, the police, the lawyers, the nurses, and the administrative staff! They do extraordinary work every day. It is a battle won inch-by-inch on the ground; celebrating small victories for this is a war that cannot be won by smart bombs from afar. This year’s Most Valuable Partner Award goes to the pioneers and leaders of the WCPUs from Luzon, Visayas and Mindanao. Working at the WCPUs for more than 10 years, they never gave up and they have persevered up to this day.

This annual report acknowledges the invaluable contribution of our development partners: UNICEF, UNFPA, Consuelo Foundation, Kindernothilfe, and Plan International. These partnerships take us to another level. It enabled us to be nearer our goal of universal access to services for abused women and children anywhere in the country.

2014 is also the year where local governments stepped up to the plate. From the 40 Yolanda-hit municipalities in Region 6, 7 and 8 to the provinces of Capiz, North and South Cotabato, Sultan Kudarat and Saranggani, all worked cooperatively with CPN in the frontline training of their municipal health officers, social workers, police, barangay officials and in establishing a Woman and Child Protection Unit for the province.

We achieved 3 important milestones in 2014: adapting Trauma-Informed Care (TIC) and Trauma-Informed Psychotherapy (TIP) in the Philippines and the dissemination of the Protocol for Case Management of Child Victims of Abuse, Neglect and Exploitation. All of these will benefit the abused children and families that we serve. It builds a network of caring professionals that delivers evidence-based services. From acceptance of reports and referrals, to investigation, prosecution and after-care services, every professional in the care-continuum will know what to do and how to work with other agencies who have different but complementary functions in the comprehensive management of abused children and their families.

Sincerely yours,

Bernadette J. Madrid

Adolescence is the intersection of violence against women and violence against children in terms of intimate partner violence (e.g, dating violence). Lack of access to sexual and reproductive health information and services is a threat to adolescent health (Department of Health Adolescent and Youth Health Program, 2011).

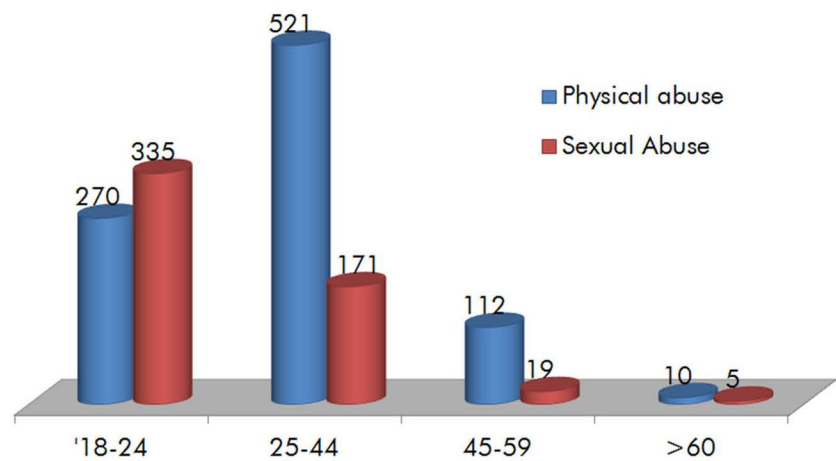

Available at <http://www.doh.gov.ph/node/338.html>.

In 2014, reported cases of physical violence is the more common for Interpersonal Violence among adults, while while sexual violence was more commonly reported among adolescents and young children.

JENNIFER'S STORY

Jennifer is a 15 year old, third year high school student. She frequently cuts class to be with her boyfriend and is always fighting with her parents. One day, she suddenly started crying and confided to her classmates that her stepfather, Rey, has been sexually abusing her since she was 7 years old. Jennifer's friends advised her to tell their teacher but she was afraid that Rey would go to jail and her half-sisters will grow up without a father. She felt she would rather die. She attempted to jump down the stairs but the guidance counselor talked to her and brought her to the Barangay Hall. Her mother,

Arlene, was informed of Jennifer's disclosure;; however, Arlene did not know what to do. When Rey appeared at the barangay, the Barangay Women's Desk sought police assistance and Rey was apprehended. At the police station, the WCPD investigator took Jennifer's statement but Jennifer retracted her statement when her older sister arrived and berated her for what she disclosed. Jennifer then changed her story and said that she lied about the abuse to get back at her stepfather for not allowing her to have a boyfriend. The WCPD police referred Jennifer to CPU where she underwent full evaluation including a forensic psychiatric evaluation.

A Case Conference was called where all the multidisciplinary professionals who saw Jennifer met to discuss how the case will be managed. The WCPD police investigator filed the case at the Office of the City Prosecutor. In court, several expert witnesses from CPU were called to testify. One of the major issues was to define what Child Sexual Abuse Accommodation Syndrome is and to explain Jennifer's behavior. It was recognized that recantation can happen among sexually abused children and that Jennifer was under family pressure. Rey was found guilty and sentenced to life imprisonment.

Sexually abused children are more likely to recant if they were abused by a family member living in the child's household and if they lack family support. Thus, inconsistencies and recantations may be due to reluctance to go against the family's wishes rather than a false allegation.

Competent and Caring professionals are essential for supporting and protecting an abused child at every step towards healing and recovery.

RIZZA'S STORY

Rizza was 16 years old when she was sexually assaulted by three men she met during a drinking spree. At first, she kept the incident to herself and did not tell anyone. As the days passed, she had difficulty sleeping and could not stop thinking about what happened. When she felt that she could not take it anymore, she told her mother what happened and they filed a case against the three men at the police station. However, it was not easy for Rizza to go on with life after her disclosure. She could not concentrate in school and looked dazed. She became irritable and fearful of people she met because she associated them with the perpetrators. She also blamed herself for going to the party and giving in to peer pressure. Her parents did not know how to handle her behavior but they remained very supportive. They stood firm in their decision to pursue the case in spite of the perpetrators' pressures and threats. When Rizza started psychotherapy at a CPU, she was depressed and missed sessions due to financial constraints. To help Rizza, the CPU subsidized her transportation expenses and referred her case to the Local Government Unit (LGU).

The Mayor provided an allowance to cover food and transportation expenses and the LGU social worker monitored her case to ensure regular follow-up. Her trauma symptoms improved and she has learned positive coping skills. With the additional educational assistance from CPU, Rizza was able to graduate from high school and is now preparing to enroll in college. In her journal, she wrote "Lahat ng pagsubok ay nalalampasan basta't may paninindigan na ipaglaban ang karapatan." (We can overcome trials in life, if we take a stand and fight for our rights.)

Resilience - resistance to the effects of exposure to a stressful situation - is not only about the child's ability to overcome challenges. It includes the capacity of the child's environment to respond and provide what a child needs under toxic stress.

Supportive relationships and access to health, educational and social services foster resilience and positive development among children.

GARY'S STORY

Gary was seven years old when he was brought to a CPU by his mother, Gwen, after a paternal uncle beat him up for talking back. Gary stays with his uncle while his parents are at work. During the CPU evaluation, Gwen said she was having a hard time with Gary. He seemed to be getting more hard-headed as he grew up and Gwen spanked him often. In school, teachers said he was easily distracted and would roam in class.

Gary was assessed by the CPU Pediatric Developmental Specialist and was diagnosed with Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD). He was then transferred to a school with Special Education (SPED). After a month, Gary wanted to go back to his old school. He was afraid of his classmates and other children were making fun of him. His parents could not afford a private school because their income barely covered the family's basic needs.

Since Gary was not doing well in SPED, his mother, in consultation with CPU, transferred Gary back to his old school so he could be in regular school again. CPU provided financial assistance to support Gary's education. The principal in his old school was very understanding but she warned Gwen that Gary needs extra help with regards his behavior. True enough, Gwen was frequently called to the school about Gary's behavior. The teachers did not want him in their class but there were a few who accommodated him because of Gwen's persistent efforts to keep Gary in school. Gwen also attended the parenting classes at CPU.

The guidance counselor gathered the teachers together to discuss his case and how each of them could help Gary learn. They found ways to keep him focused so he could pass. They also talked to Gary's classmates about his special needs. Gwen stopped working so that she could take care of him after school. Fortunately, Gary's father had a regular job and relatives also helped with the family's needs. Gary was able to stay in regular school and is now in grade 9. Gwen continues to coordinate with his teachers and brings him to all of his follow-up appointments with the CPU Developmental Pediatrician and CPU Psychologist.

All children are entitled to survive, grow and develop to their full potential. The child's best interest must be at the heart of services.

Families, schools and institutions have the shared responsibility of enabling children with special needs to live full and decent lives by ensuring access to education and health care services, allowing the child to express his views and taking their opinions seriously.

UNFPA delivers a world where pregnancy is wanted, every birth is safe, and every young person’s potential is fulfilled. UNFPA partners with governments, other agencies and civil society to advance UNFPA’s mission. Two frameworks guide its efforts: The Programme of Action adopted at the 1994 International Conference on Population and Development and the Millenium Development Goals, eight targets to reduce extreme poverty by 2015.

Since 2012, CPN in partnership with UNFPA has accomplished the following activities:

November 8, 2013 will live in infamy. It was the day when Typhoon Yolanda - the strongest to make landfall in recorded history - wreaked havoc in many provinces in the Visayas, claimed 6,300 lives, and damaged Php89.6B worth of infrastructure and properties. An emergency of such magnitude required an equally widespread network of well-capacitated service providers. Thus, UNICEF and Child Protection Network (CPN) undertook a 12-month response plan to "Strengthen Child Protection Systems in Typhoon Yolanda-affected Areas".

Strategy 1: Training of Multi-disciplinary Teams (MDT) on the Protocol for Case Management of Child Victims of Abuse, Neglect, and Exploitation

The Protocol set the standards, guidelines and appropriate process to be observed by child protection workers, from reporting or referral of a child abuse case to investigation, prosecution and after-care services. It defines roles and responsibilities of each agency as well as areas of coordination. The long-awaited Protocol was approved through an inter-agency resolution of the Committee for the Special Protection of Children (CSPC) on May 31, 2013. The CSPC is chaired by the Department of Justice (DOJ) and co-chaired by Department of Social Welfare and Development (DSWD).

281 service providers composed of social workers, municipal health personnel, barangay officials, local government officials, legal practitioners, NGO workers from Regions 6, 7 and 8 were trained on the Protocol.

Multidisciplinary Training held at The Sabin Resort, Ormoc City, Leyte on October 15-16, 2014. In photo are Chair-designate of the Committee for the Special Protection of Children Usec. Leah Armamento-Tanodra of the Department of Justice; Dr. Bernadette J. Madrid; ECPAT Executive Director Dolores Alforte; UNICEF Child Protection Specialist Ms. Faye Balanon; PGH-CPU Senior Social Worker Supervisor Ms. Dolores Rubia; and the Municipal Social Workers, PNP-WCPD Police Officers, Legal Practitioners, ABC Pres., and members of the local barangays of Regions VII & VIII.

Strategy 2: Training of social workers on Women and Child Protection Management Information System (WCPMIS)

In 2002, Child Protection Unit (CPU) developed the first child protection database in the world. In 2014, the database was enhanced to include cases of violence against women and it came to be known as WCPMIS.

UNICEF, through CPN, provided laptops, printers, and pocket WiFi to the local social welfare and development offices (LSWDO) of the 40 priority municipalities and trained 56 of their personnel on WCPMIS.

WCPMIS FEATURES:

Individual case management
Research
Generation of official reports
(Medico-legal certificates, SCAR, etc.)
Generation of process reports
(patient listing, home visit, case conference, daily appointments)

Strategy 3: Training of PNP-WCPD on the Investigation of Crimes Involving Women and Children

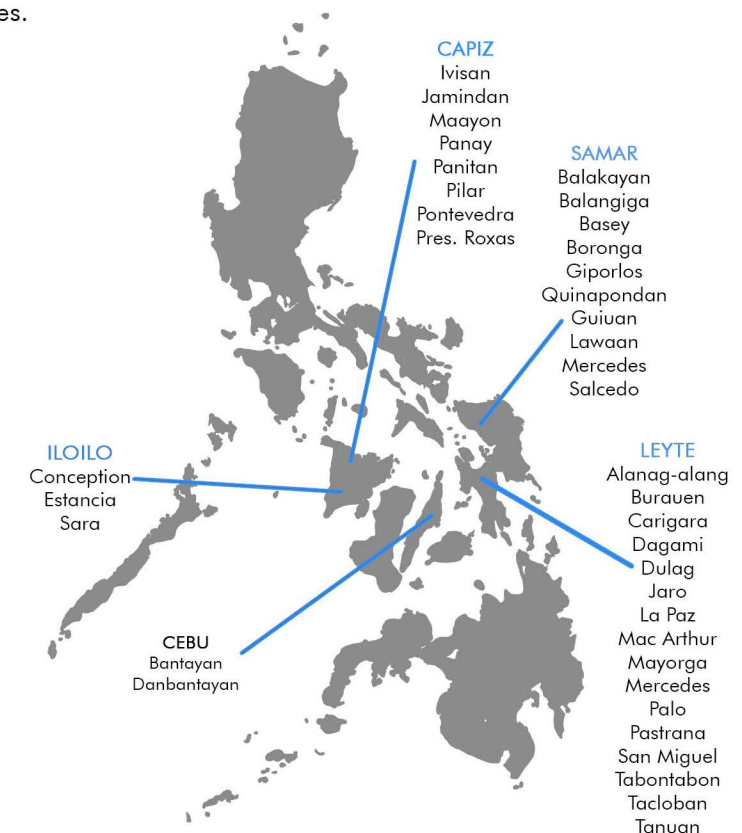

762 Women and Child Protection Desk (WCPD) Police Officers from Regions 6, 7, and 8 were trained on the Revised Specialized Course for Investigation of Crimes Involving Women and Children. The 12-day specialized course was enhanced to include relevant topics such as sensitivity to vulnerable sectors (IPs, PWDs, elderly), caring for responders, Protocol on Case Management of Child Victims of Abuse, Neglect, and Exploitation, and child protection in emergencies.

PUBLICATIONS AND MANUALS

The Child Maltreatment Medico Legal Terminology and Interpretation of Medical Findings: 4th Edition is a substantially expanded and updated version of the last edition released almost 10 years ago. The present edition is designed to guide the physician in filling up the medical modules of the Women and Child Protection Information Management System.

The committee for the Special Protection of Children (CSPC), pursuant to its mandate under Executive Order 53 dated 11 August 2011 issues this Protocol for Case Management of Child Victims of Abuse, Neglect, and Exploitation for the guidance of all concerned government agencies, non-government organizations, and other stakeholders. A protocol sets out the way that different agencies will work with each other.

The specialized Course on Investigation of Crimes Involving Women and Children for PNP-WCPD Officers is a significant step in institutionalizing within the PNP the training on investigation of crimes affecting women and children.

The training was expanded to vulnerable populations such as persons with disabilities and indigenous peoples.

UPGRADE OF WOMEN AND CHILD PROTECTION INFORMATION SYSTEM (WCPMIS)

The CPMIS software now has a new feature which expanded the age bracket for women: 18-24; 25-44; 45-59; and +60 years old. The new system will be able to generate reports on case of VAW and data based on the primary diagnosis, number of patients by referral source, most common chief complaint, most common recipient of VAW disclosure, list of person who reported to authorities, autopsy rate of suspected fatal abuse, case distribution by city of incident. The upgraded software will be distributed to all WCPUs.

DEVELOPMENT of manual on MULTIDISCIPLINARY TEAM TRAINING ON VIOLENCE AGAINST WOMEN AND CHILDREN and on-site training manual on CERTIFICATE ON WOMEN AND CHILD PROTECTION SPECIALTY COURSE.

The Department of Social Welfare and Development (DSWD), Child Protection Network (CPN), International Justice Mission (IJM), and Consuelo Foundation signed a Memorandum of Agreement to develop a Trauma Training Program to increase capacity of professionals providing after-care services to survivors of human trafficking for commercial sexual exploitation and other forms of abuse. The Trauma Training Program is composed of two separate training: 1) Trauma-Informed Care (TIC) which is for all continuum of care professionals and 2) Trauma Informed Psychotherapy for those providing a more intensive mental health therapy.

TRAUMA INFORMED CARE (TIC)

TIC refers to an organizational framework wherein service providers have a strong understanding of the impact of trauma on the lives of survivors as well as the complex path to healing and recovery. It is an approach to providing recovery services; it is not in itself a clinical intervention for trauma.

TIC is designed to avoid re-traumatizing survivors while also supporting recovery through the creation of physical, psychological and emotional safe space. The basic training in TIC includes an introduction to trauma and its impact on survivors, developing a trauma lens, guidelines for managing behaviors, and understanding vicarious trauma.

Graduation Ceremony of the TIC Training by Mr. Raul Almazar thru the support of Consuelo Foundation

Mr. Raul Almazar and Ms. Ann C. Steffen, International Justice Mission's Director of After Care Development with PGH-CPU Child Protection Specialists, Social Workers, Police Officer and staff.

Mr. Raul Almazar, RN, MA, Chief Consultant of Almazar Consulting National Center for Trauma Informed Care, Chicago

TRAUMA INFORMED PSYCHOTHERAPY (TIP)

TIP Is an advanced clinical training designed to equip Filipino mental health professionals to address the therapy needs of survivors of trafficking and other forms of trauma. It teaches best practices in therapeutic trauma intervention adapted to the local context by seasoned Filipino professionals to ensure cultural relevance for use with children and adolescents.

Samuel M. Girguis, PsyD, of Azusa Pacific University, doing a role play with one of the participants during the TIP Training.

Participants from DSWD, IJM, CPN in NCR, Region 7 and Region 3 attended the Trauma Informed Psychotherapy training in Baguio City, March 8-13, 2015.

Dr. Merle P. Tan graduates from the Trauma Informed Psychotherapy Training on March 8-13, 2015 in Baguio City. With her are Ms. Ann Steffen of the International Justice Mission and Director Margarita Sampang of the Protective Services Bureau of the DSWD Central Office.

The theme of the AKO PARA SA BATA (APSB) The International Conference in Manila 2014 is a result of questions that always come up during the multidisciplinary trainings that the Child Protection Network (CPN) conducts across the country. Indeed, there are differences in beliefs and practices that greatly affect children. CPN's goal is to analyse and address these differences to provide the child A WORLD WITHOUT BORDERS.

The conference brought together for a dialogue the different cultures in the Philippines.

Forty (40) Women and Child Protection specialists and staff who have served for 10 years or more were awarded as CPN's Most Valuable Partners for 2014. Their outstanding service to every abused woman and child who steps in the Women and Child Protection Unit (WCPU) door was acknowledged.
